buttons to upload, save, and for each of the editing features the cut feature allows a user to make a selection of the image by using their finger

why this is interesting

- this is an application that I would actually enjoy using, since I currently have to use my laptop every time I want to make significant changes to my photos

- this allows me to learn how to develop an android app from the ground up, which is a skill I've been wanting to learn
